CONGRESS HAS SHOWN SPEED-UP SYMPTOMS

Started Going Places Today; House Moves On Drought Bill

Washington, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The House Rules committee voted today to give special legislative status to the drought relief appropriation bill so it might be sent to conference with the Senate tomorrow.

The committee adopted a resolution to disagree to the Senate's $15,000,000 amendment for human food loans.

Under the rules of the House, the resolution can not be brought up until tomorrow. A vote then will be taken which will show the strength of those in the House supporting the Senate amendment.

Representative Garner, the minority leader, said off the floor that at least 150 members would vote for the Senate amendment.

On the other hand, the House Republican leaders expressed confidence they would be able to secure adoption of the special rule with the House insisting the Senate recede from its amendment.

The request for a special rule was asked by Chairman Wood of the Appropriations committee, who has resisted efforts of Democrats to get consideration of the Senate amendment in the House.

SENATE SPEEDS UP

Washington, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Accelerating its pace, the Senate today confirmed with hardly a pause, four of the six members of the new Tariff Commission.

The House worked on the Vestal bill for automatic copyright of creative work.

Another House committee, that investigating Communist activities, heard from John W. Pole, Comptroller of the Treasury recommendations for legislation to curb "whispering campaigns" against banks.

Chairman Fletcher of the Tariff Commission was confirmed despite a contention by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, that he was without proper knowledge of the subject.

More strenuous opposition for Edgar B. Brossard of Utah, another Republican member of the Commission, was marshaled by Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi. The other three confirmed are Thomas W. Cagle, Democrat, Virginia; John Lee Cooper, Republican, North Dakota; and Arvid P. Dennis, Democrat, Maryland.

Echoes of Fight

Echoes of the bitter but losing fight of the Senate to have President Hoover resubmit the names of three members of the Power Commission were heard with talk of an effort to block appropriations for the agency.

Mr. Pole's recommendation before the Communist committee was for a Federal statute making it a criminal offense to intentionally circulate false reports concerning any person.

A bank of money of the Federal Reserve System, impacting a sound financial condition or tending to cause a run.

Because he believes the United States has been backward in the development of Diesel engines for naval vessels, Rear Admiral Yarnell, Chief of the Bureau of Engineering, asked the House naval committee to authorize $3,000,000 for experimentation of that type of power plant.

Secretary Adams recommended that the committee include this sum in the pending construction bill, which would authorize the appropriation of $90,000,000 for naval ships, making the present construction program total $142,930,000.

BROOKLYN TOWNSHIP FARMHOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE SATURDAY; FAMILY WAS AWAY FROM HOME

The farm residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Christiance, located on the old Chicago road in Brooklyn township, about two miles north and west of Compton, was burned to the ground about 9:30 Saturday evening. The origin of the fire is undetermined, but is believed to have started from a spark from the chimney.

Mr. and Mrs. Christiance were in Compton when a neighbor discovered a small blaze eating its way through the shingles on the roof. He was unable to reach the fire and telephoned to neighbors in the vicinity. The entire upper part of the house was soon a mass of flame, which was fanned by a brisk breeze. Mr. and Mrs. Christiance were located at Compton and apprised of the fire, and upon their arrival at their home,

NEGRO WHO ASSAULTED AND MURDERED SCHOOL TEACHER BURNED TO DEATH BY MOB

Taken From Officers As He Was Being Taken To Court

Maryville, Mo., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Chained to the roof of the Garret rural school in which he was alleged to have assaulted and murdered Miss Velma Colter, 19-year-old teacher, Raymond Gunn, Negro, was burned to death by a mob which made a funeral pyre of the building today.

Gunn was marched into the school house and to the spot where the bruised body of the young teacher was discovered. Those of the mob who were closest to him were closest said the Negro confessed his guilt.

He was then taken to the roof of the building. He was placed across the ridge-pole. Holes were chipped in the roof and gasoline poured over the floors and on the walls. A member of the mob applied a match.

Calm Throughout

Gunn was calm throughout. Those close to him said he was not injured during the march to the school, although his clothing was stripped to the waist.

At least 2,000 persons stood around the small school building.

Face down across the ridge pole, Gunn pushed himself up and waved at the crowd which contained hundreds of women. Then he sank against the roof.

One long, piercing shriek arose above the crackling of the flames as they played about his head.

The crowd, orderly throughout, stood about the four corners where the school was located until the white, one-room frame building was reduced to ashes.

Gunn was seized as he arrived at the court house in an automobile driven by Gabe Purcell, Deputy Sheriff. The leader of the mob told Purcell to stand aside.

No Firearms Seen

A rope was placed about the Negro's body as the group of fifty men on foot began the march toward Miss Colter's rural school.

Behind the group on foot followed several hundred persons in automobiles.

No fire arms were in evidence. Spectators near the Negro when he was seized said no resistance was offered by his guards.

The Negro, an ex-convict who had served a prison term for an assault on another girl a few years ago, was seized from Sheriff's officers at the entrance to the court house here this morning as he was being brought from the county jail for arraignment on a charge of slaying Miss Colter.

No attempt was made to stop the lynching and the mob met little resistance in taking the Negro from officers.

Militia in Armory

A detachment of Battery C, 128th Field Artillery, local Missouri National Guard unit, had been ordered mobilized early today to cope with possible mob action. The Guardsmen were reported to have been gathered at their armory at the time Gunn was seized by the mob.

It was understood they were waiting for an official request from Sheriff Harry England for assistance.

Early reports erroneously stated that the Guardsmen were on duty about the court house when Gunn was taken.

The road leading to the pyre which once was Miss Colter's school room was thronged with automobiles and pedestrians throughout the morning.

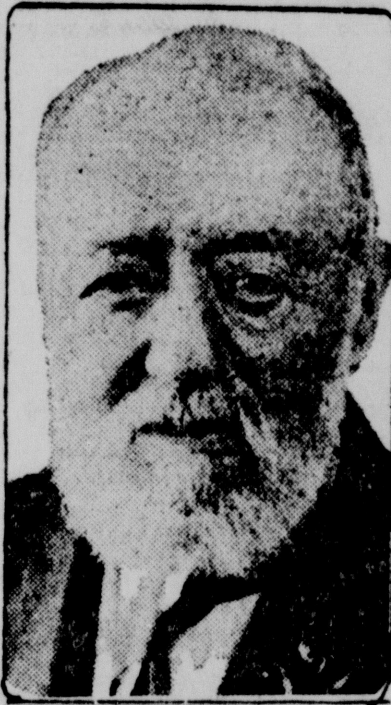

Those close to the Negro as he was dragged along his three mile death march said Gunn told them another Negro, "Shike" Smith, was present when Miss Colter was assaulted and killed.

Smith was a hunting and trapping companion of Gunn.

As spectators returned from the scene of the violence they said members of the mob made no attempt to conceal their identity.

RESORT WEST OF CITY HELD UP LAST EVE

Ohio Service Station And Sublette Store Also Robbed

The Rose Garden road house at the foot of Lord's Hill on the Lincoln Highway, west of Dixon, was the scene of a bold holdup at about 1 o'clock this morning when two men wearing caps and handkerchiefs over their faces, obtained about $200 after a general ransacking of the place. The strangers did not overlook an electric piano, which they forced the proprietors to open and then scooped up the contents. Before entering the building they stood on a box outside and cut the telephone wires.

The place was being closed and the lights on the outside had been turned off by Mr. and Mrs. Nafziger, the proprietors, who were arranging to close and had let a pet dog outside. The dog was heard to bark and Mr. Nafziger went to the door and was confronted by the masked strangers, both of whom carried revolvers. He was backed into the building and he and his wife were ordered to sit down. One of them stood guard while his companion conducted a thorough search of the building.

A third man is thought to have waited in a car, which had been parked on the highway. After the robbery, Mrs. Nafziger told the officers who investigated the robbery this morning, she heard a car driving away. Two men said to answer the description of the robbers, were said to have been in the road house earlier in the evening.

Service Station Held Up

Saturday evening about 9 o'clock the Fred Swain service station in Ohio, was held up and robbed by two men. About $300 in money and a wrist watch belonging to the station attendant on duty were taken, together with several packages of cigarettes. The dark sedan without license plates pulled up to the service station about 9 o'clock and two men alighted and walked into the station. The attendant was alone at the time and both strangers whipped out revolvers and proceeded to search his pockets and the station.

Another car was parked about $50 worth of men's wearing apparel, consisting of work clothing was taken. The robbery was discovered Sunday morning when early risers noticed the window in the front door had been shattered. Mr. Becker was notified and upon investigation found that overalls, jackets and work shirts had been taken from the stock which had been ransacked.

Sublette Store Robbed

Charles Becker, proprietor of the Farmer's Store at Sublette reported Sunday morning the robbery of his place of business, where about $50 worth of men's wearing apparel, consisting of work clothing was taken. ## Pilots and Plane Believed Lost At Sea

This striking layout, with closeups and a telephoto picture made a moment before their takeoff included, shows Mrs. Beryl Hart and Captain William S. MacLaren, co-pilots, believed lost at sea, as they departed from New York on a scheduled flight for Paris, with stops at Bermuda and the Azores. The diagram shows the interior and construction of their biplane, "Trade Wind," which was equipped to carry cargo and was capable of a quick operating pump valve for emptying the load in an emergency. The seaplane had a 300-horsepower nine-cylinder Wright motor, a wing span of 48 feet and eight inches, and length of 29 feet and nine inches.

MOTHER TO AID OF MAN HELD AS LINGLE SLAYER

She Says Brothers Is Not A Killer: Seeks To Establish Alibi

Chicago, Jan. 12.—(UP)—A determined mother who contends that her "fighting" son couldn't have committed murder "because he was afraid of guns" issued a challenge today to authorities preparing to bring Leo V. Brothers from his secret prison to charge him openly with the slaying of Alfred Lingke.

"I've come to deal with now and before I'm through with them they'll be glad to quit," declared Mrs. Cordell Jensen, 47, St. Louis, who has come here to fight for the life of Brothers, her son, who she says is "a fighter, but not a killer, and was never a crook," she declared hotly in defense of the tall athletic blonde whom Detective Pat Roche says is "the toughest man" he has ever met and who States Attorney Jon A. Swanson accuses of committing Chicago's most sensational gang murder. Brothers also is wanted in St. Louis, home town, on a murder charge.

Says Slayer Is Dead

"The man who committed that murder in St. Louis was a friend of mine and he would have confessed and cleared Leo. And Leo didn't tell me that, either. I have found it out."

While Roche and Swanson prepared to take Brothers into court for the first time since his secret arrest on Dec. 21 and to charge him (Continued on Page 2)

TWO THUGS AND ONE WATCHMAN WEEK-END TOLL

Like Number Wounded Chicago Police Report

Chicago, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Two robbers and one watchman were fatalities in week-end brushes between the lawless and the law.

In addition, two robbers were probably fatally wounded in the shootings and one watchman stabbed.

Stanley Kasprzyk, 43, Hammond, Ind., was fatally wounded and Frank Kurak, 16, Chicago, was dying as the result of a surprise raid planned by police of the Indiana Harbor Belt Line Railroad as nine men and two boys tried to steal from freight cars at Calumet City.

The bullet-marked body of Durand Martini, 24, was found in a west side street. Joseph Koepke, clothing store watchman, identified the body as that of a man he shot when he caught him stealing a coat through a broken window.

Nicholas Morandria, 50, watchman for the Chicago & North Western Railroad, was slain by a shot from S. L. Phillips, Negro porter who confessed, police said, to having been caught stealing blankets. ## TRADEWIND IS LONG OVERDUE AT FAYAL ISLE

Encountered Storms on Flight; Probably Downed At Sea

Paris, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Paris at noon today had no word of the airplane Tradewind, which Saturday took off from Bermuda for the Azores en route here.

Vessels along the French coast have been instructed to keep a lookout for the craft.

Horta, Fayal Island, Azores, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Ships flying the trans-Atlantic route along which the seaplane Tradewind departed from Bermuda Saturday for the Azores islands kept a sharp watch today for a clew to the disappearance of the white craft and its crew of two.

There was little hope here, however, for the safety of Mrs. Beryl Hart, red-haired pilot, and her co-pilot and navigator, Lieut. William S. MacLaren. Many ships along the overwater route between Bermuda and the Azores and beyond the mid-Atlantic islands toward Europe reported by wireless that storms prevailed but there was no sign of the Tradewind.

Horta, Azores, Jan. 12.—(UP)—A strong "northeaster," bringing stormy weather and vicious winds, whipped over the Azores today while an apparently hopeless watch was kept for a man and a woman who had challenged the Atlantic on a flight of 2,000 miles from Bermuda to the Azores.

Anxiety that had mounted during the hours in which Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieut. William S. MacLaren had departed from their white seaplane Tradewind turned to a faint hope that they might have missed their mark, a small group of islands in the ocean, and continued to the safety of the European coast. But no word of their progress reached Paris, their ultimate destination, and ships east of the Azores had not reported sighting their plane.

The Tradewind left Hamilton, Bermuda, at 11:15 a. m. Saturday. The fliers were 24 hours overdue here at 7 a. m. today. Unless they landed at sea and were picked up by a ship without a wireless, it was feared that Mrs. Hart and her co-pilot and navigator might have become victims of the storm that lashed the Azores and sent giant breakers crashing through Horta Bay.

Mr. Hoover made known his approval of the Red Cross funds campaign in a letter to Chairman Payne. He recalled it had been held desirable to withhold any appeal for funds until local organizations of the large (Continued on Page 2)

Thousands Perish In Blizzard AND INTENSE COLD WAVE, REPORT FROM NORTHERN CHINA DECLARES

Shanghai, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Winter, in this part of the world the harrowing of death and intense suffering today gripped virtually all of north China, Manchuria, Siberia, Korea and Japan, paralyzed communications, crippled railroads and took an undetermined toll of human life and property.

China, from the Yangtze river northward, lay under a mantle of ice and snow, while frigid blasts from the north added to the depth of the white blanket with a mixture of snow and sand from the barren steppes of Mongolia.

It was feared thousands had perished from the intense cold in northern China alone, dispatches describing the finding of scores of frozen bodies in the streets of large cities. The fates of western China, much of which was isolated owing to disrupted communications, was uncertain.

Many cities of north central and northeastern China reported below zero weather and at Harbin, Manchuria, the thermometer registered 35 degrees Fahrenheit, below zero.

The local weather office described the cold wave as the most severe in China since 1923. Forecasts indicated moderating temperatures in the vicinity of Shanghai today.

formally with the Lingle murder, Mrs. Jessen conferred with her attorneys and dug into her memory and records for the proof she says she could present that Leo was not guilty.

She attempted to trace telephone calls, which she said Leo made to her, and to show that Leo was in Michigan on last June 9, when Lingle, a Tribune reporter, was killed in a pedestrian subway.

Lived on Union Pay

She also would prove, she said, that while in hiding here, Brothers lived on $100 a month paid him by a St. Louis union, plus sums of $10 and $15 a week which she sent him.

This, she said, would prove that he had not been paid a large sum of money to kill Lingle, as charged by Swanson, and that no powerful gang had kept him for months in payment for killing the reporter.

"And he always was afraid of revolvers," she said. "He never carried one, but he did shoot one on New Year's and July Fourth. It was a little I had owned for 20 years."

A 45 calibre revolver, loaded, was found in Brother's $12 a week room when he was arrested.

Swanson and Roche indicated they would arraign Brothers either today or tomorrow and ask for an immediate trial.

distinctly against the fliers from the moment word was received that they had started on their perilous journey. Ugly weather early Saturday developed into a dangerous storm with heavy seas. The outlook was no better on Sunday and a real northeaster continued over the islands today.

Conditions were so bad that Lieut. MacLaren would have had difficulty in "spotting" the islands even if the Tradewind had carried the fliers this far. A dangerous landing would have been added to the fliers' difficulties. Unless pilot and navigator were acquainted with a few sheltered coves in the bay, they would have risked their airplane and their lives in attempting to come down while strong winds churned the harbor into a trap for ships stronger than the Tradewind.

Flares Kept Burning
Flares were lighted during the night and kept burning during the day when visibility was poor. The local radio station kept in constant touch with ships along the Tradewind's route, but none of them sighted the seaplane.

The lack of any word from the fliers handicapped plans for organizing searching parties from Horta. Officials here could not surmise whether the Tradewind had been forced down soon after leaving Brimuda or whether Mrs. Hart and Lieut. MacLaren had encountered difficulties when nearing their goal.

BREAKFAST
The sparrows flew down to the window-edge—
And it was Christmas Morning!
They lighted and poised on the icy edge.
The snow and the keen scolding.

A little old woman pushed up the sash,
Her faded eyes were glowing.
And half her breakfast—rash, oh, rash!
She crumbled amid the snowing.

She ate her half as she watched them there,
And her smile was a rare adornment.
Making her wrinkled face full held—
Oh, it was Christmas Morning

Rock Falls Couple Married in Dixon

On Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock Charles G. Wright of Rock Falls and Miss Esther L. Schroeder, also of Rock Falls, motored to Dixon and were united in marriage at the parsonage to St. Paul's Lutheran church with the pastor, Rev. L. W. Walter, performing the ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bauer of Rock Falls were the attendants.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wright proceeded on their way on a honeymoon, motoring. They will make their home in Rock Falls, where he is employed by the International Harvester Co., and where their many friends are waiting to congratulate them.

January Meeting Of Unity Guild

The January meeting of the Unity Guild was enjoyed with Mrs. S. C. Burnham, Thursday, Jan. 8th, in an all day session. The usual picnic dinner was enjoyed at noon, the number enjoying the bountiful repast being augmented by the addition of four guests, Mrs. A. W. Sarsfield, Charles Hey, S. C. Burnham and Miss Edna Burnham.

At 2:30 a brief business session was held. Following this Mrs. Chas. Hey read several short articles on Russia which were very interesting and instructive, and especially pertinent at this time, when the problems of this much discussed country are so evident to all.

The social hour following closed the day's activities with adjournment until Feb. 12, at which Mrs. O. T. Goeke will entertain the members at her home.

J. R. Foote, Talked to Club on Rock Gardens Saturday Afternoon

On Saturday, the Dixon Woman's club held its regular bi-monthly meeting at the Christian church. After the business session the meeting was turned over to Mrs. O. T. Goeke, chairman of the American Home and Garden Department who had charge of the program.

J. R. Foote of Winnetka, Ill., speaker of the afternoon whose subject, "The Lure of Rock Garden," had aroused the interest of a large number of local garden enthusiasts, addressed a splendid audience.

He spoke advisedly on the various principles which enter into the building of a rock garden, touching upon the idea of permanence, color combinations, types and arrangement of the stones, as well as the necessity of experimenting in order to get the proper effect for each individual garden.

The last part of Mr. Foote's talk was given over to informal discussion in which he answered specific questions asked by members of the audience.

Mrs. Will Hill of Harmon, accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Hoefliger of this city, sang three very pleasing numbers.

Mrs. Walder, with her efficient hostess committee served dainty refreshments. A most realistic and novel miniature rock garden was the attractive center for the long serving table.

The next meeting, Jan. 24 will be in charge of the Literature Dept. at which time members of the High School Dramatic Club will present a play.

The closing number was "America" sung by all the men and boys accompanied by all the instruments that had been played during the evening.

The personnel of the double quartette was L. A. Thummel, Henry Jennings, Chas. Reed, Chas. Manon, L. F. Powers, Austin Powers, Harry Friedrichs and E. H. Klosterman. They were accompanied by Mrs. E. H. Klosterman at the piano and Geo. Thompson on the violin. Mr. Thompson acted as leader of the comic opera and very cleverly introduced the members of his company.

The Prairieville Troubadours were:

violin; John T. Lawrence and Geo. Thompson piano, Mrs. E. H. Klosterman; bones, Sol Rutt, specialty dancer, Chas. Reed.

Fred Bosenneller, Bert Bosenneller, Mr. Strong and Mr. Albus made up the instrumental quartette.

Meeting of Nachusa Missionary Society

The meeting of the Nachusa Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Harvey Pitzer in Franklin Grove on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 8th.

A devotional service was conducted by Miss Mary Sutton while Mrs. Wesley Hackman had the lesson study in charge. The topic was a most interesting one—India. Today—and was divided into three parts, caste, family life and Hindu religion. Many interesting and enlightening things were learned concerning the working of the caste system in India, of the modes and customs of the family life there, and the strange practices of the Hindu religion and the contrasts of the Hindu christian.

The leader then conducted a quiz on the magazine for the month. This closed the program which was followed by a sort business session during which it was decided to observe the Lenten week of prayer from Feb. 23d to March 1st. The president appointed the secretaries and committees to serve for the new year as follows: Thank-Offering Secretary, Mrs. Harry Weig; Magazine Secretary, Mrs. H. Psicholz; Flower Committee, Mrs. Geo. Weidman; Mrs. Fannie Wolf and Mrs. John Plantz. The treasurer's report was given and the minutes of the previous meeting approved. After several other matters of business were disposed of the meeting closed with prayer in unison.

The ladies were then served with most delectable refreshments by the hostesses, Mrs. Pitzer, Mrs. Charles Coleman and Mrs. Henry Hess. There was a good attendance of members and two visitors enjoyed the afternoon.

There will be a picnic supper and dance Thursday evening at the Elks club for Elks and their ladies. A good attendance is desired.

A meeting of the committee in charge of the affair is called for Tuesday evening at 7:30. All those who are have not been called and wish to attend, please call Mrs. Raymond Worsley, chairman of the committee.

Palmyra Unit, Home Bureau Had Meeting

The regular meeting of the Palmyra Unit of the Home Bureau was held at the home of Mrs. Keith Swartz Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Mark Williams, vice chairman, had charge. Mrs. Swartz then favored with a mandolin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Leon Hart.

Mrs. Syverud, Home Advisor, gave the lesson on "Scheduling Household." This aroused quite a little helpful discussion. This was followed by several contents.

DRIFTING DOWN A RIVER.

A homestead boat is slipping down the waters of the Mississippi river, leisurely and quietly. It isn't going anywhere in particular and it has all the time in the world to get there. And on the deck an old man sits with his feet propped against the rail. J. W. Preston is 70 years old. Once he was an automobile upholsterer. His shop was always crowded with work to do. But every now and then he would leave his tasks at East St. Louis, Ill., and go down to the river bank. He would see the shine of a light far out. Then he would renew his vow that some day, when he was old, he, too, would be a vagrant of the waterways. He would be lulled to sleep by the steady splash of waves, he would have stars for candles, and the wind across the water for an evening song. Some day...

And now the time has come. Preston goes drifting down the long brown river, doing the thing he has always wanted to do. He and the river have lots of time. Neither is in any hurry.

Preston isn't any different than most other men. Nearly every man who has passed the eagerness of youth starts to dream dreams, and the last one is based on the peaceful way in which he shall rest a little while, so he can be ready for the last clear call. Most of them never achieve the period of waiting. Preston did.

We all desire a period for dreams, a time of laziness, at the ending of the way. We want to take a deep breath; to see a far light; to close our eyes and feel the current carrying us on and know that we don't have to touch the oars. We can drift and drift, and if we miss one port we'll make another.

So many of our adventures must take place only in our hearts. So often we are so busy we haven't time to think of them during the productive years. But there comes a time to all of us, as it did to Ulysses, that first rover of the waterways, when we want to sail beyond the sunset till we die.

And because Preston has a period of usefulness behind him he can enjoy the heritage of laziness which is his. He has earned the right to drift on gold brown waters through the day and black channels touched with drifted silver in the night.

We are glad that he wasn't afraid to make his boat and start down the river. And we hope that when he heads for the final shore it will be just as the dawn breaks on the river. An old man who had the lazy wanderlust somehow could catch the pulse of a new adventure more easily if his boat swung into harbor as he drifted from the night.

ANOTHER GIANT GOES.

Joffre, Foch, Haig, Clemenceau, Wilson—the giants of the World War—are leaving us fast. Of the great figures who held the center of the stage a brief 12 years ago, only a very few remain. Pershing and Ludendorff and Hindenburg and Lloyd George are still with us, and a few more; but the roll call is getting shorter each year.

Historians, very likely, will be puzzling over Joffre for a long time to come. Was he, really, a great soldier who saved France by a stroke of genius, or was he an ordinary plodder who chanced to win world-wide fame because of the mistakes of his enemies and the sudden energy of a subordinate? The question probably will not be settled definitely in our time. Meanwhile, we who can remember the World War as a living experience can only say that for a time he filled our horizon and seemed a veritable giant. Genius or mediocrity, he at least had a leading role in one of the greatest dramas ever produced.

One must have grace and dignity, says a fashion expert, to wear the new frocks effectively. Well, poise will be poise.

The old witch doctor frowned a bit. Said Clowdy, "He's not feeling fit. Perhaps he's mad 'cause we are here. Shall we be on our way? I'd hate to walk into a fight with him because he looks a fright." "Oh, no," replied the Travel Man. "We're safe and we will stay."

"You see, he always looks real mad. It is the training he has had. A good witch doctor scares folks just so they will do no wrong. He makes them fear an awful plight unless all things they do are right. With all the natives round about his standing's very strong."

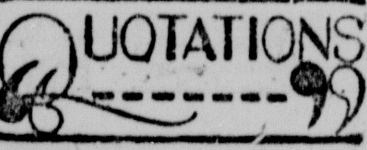

"Well, shucks, he needn't look at me. I'm just as good as I can be," said Clowdy. All the others laughed. The Travel Man then said, "Shake hands with him. Don't be afraid." And shortly one more friend was made. "Don't scare us," whispered Clowdy. And the witch man shook his head.

They watched him do some antics and the whole bunch thought that he was grand. Toward nightfall they bid him good-bye. "Let's find a place to sleep," said Clowdy. "I am all tired out." The Travel Man replied, "No doubt! Hop in the truck and I will drive beneath a moonlit sky."

So while the Tines slept real sound, the truck moved on across the ground. It passed on through Elizaville and one more little town. Toward dawn the Travel Man cried, "Hey! Wake up! This is another day. We're by the river Zambesi. Let's stop and look around."

They drove right down, along the shore. And there a new sight was in store. Some fishermen were dragging in some nets of real strange style. "Oh, gee!" cried Carpy. "I like this. It's something that I wouldn't miss. As long as we have heaps of time, let's watch them for a while."

PESTALOZZI'S BIRTH

On Jan. 12, 1746, Johann Pestalozzi, a Swiss educational reformer and the chief founder of modern pedagogy, was born at Zurich.

He first became interested in the problems of education at the University of Zurich. When he married a few years later, and settled down on his 100-acre estate, he decided to study the child problem at first hand by turning his farm into an asylum for the education of the young. The venture proved a failure.

After a period of 18 years of financial distress and corresponding period of great literary activity, he founded, with governmental support, a school for poor children at Stanz. Later he conducted schools in other cities.

The idea which lay at the basis of his method of intellectual instruction was that everything should be treated in a concrete way. Almost all Pestalozzi's methods are now adopted in the elementary schools of Europe and America.

The average person needs about 2600 gallons of clean air daily.

J. A. LIVINGSTON, PUBLISHER OF THE RUSSELLVILLE (ARK.) COURIER-DEMOCRAT, SAYS:

"All manner of business these days is conducted largely upon confidence. Confidence is the basis of credit, and few businesses are operated on a strictly cash basis both in the purchase and the sales ends. When confidence is shaken, credit tightens up, and business of all kinds and individuals in all walks suffer."

"No bank, perhaps, no matter if absolutely solvent by the strictest application of regulations and methods ever applied, would be able to pay off in a single day all its depositors. Banks could not make money if operated on a plan that would make this possible. It would require cash on hand equal to its total deposits at all times, and none of the deposits could be invested in bonds, stocks, real estate or other securities, but would have to be kept as a cash surplus. It could not make loans greater than its capital stock, no matter how liquidly edged the security, and its interest rates would be of necessity be so high that none would borrow."

"The average well-managed, thoroughly sound and solvent bank is about like an individual with a steady, dependable income from wages or otherwise. Perhaps he owns his home, built in a building and loan association and on which only a few more payments are due, and an automobile or furniture or radio bought on the installment plan, on which he is meeting the payments regularly. He is absolutely solvent and under any ordinary circumstances would meet his every obligation. But suppose all his creditors should without warning suddenly demand immediate settlement in full. He could not meet the demand, of course, and would go 'broke.' No matter if his property and other assets were worth five thousand dollars and he owed less than five hundred dollars, in just the position of a bank that is called upon to witness upon to withstand a run by depositors."

"If you are a loyal citizen of the community and your money is in the bank, leave it there; if it is not, put it there. If you hoard it at home, you merely aggravate and help to bring about the very situation that has caused your fear."

Seeks Damages For His Being Shadowed

Chicago, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Counsel for Dr. John Streeter Sidley of Racine, Wis., said a $250,000 damage suit would be filed today against William Perkins Bull, K. C., a lawyer of London and Toronto, and the Harrison Secret Service Agency of Chicago.

Attorney J. Frederick Reeve filed a praecipe of the action yesterday. He said the suit would charge that Dr. Sidley's health was broken by constant shadowing for three years by detectives of the Harrison Agency hired by Bull. The shadowing, he added, related to a suit for divorce filed three years ago by Mrs. Sidley, charging cruel and inhuman treatment, which is still pending. Mrs. Sidley was formerly Miss Mabelle Horlick. She is a daughter of William H. Horlick, founder of the Horlick Malted Milk Company of Racine, Wis. After their marriage in 1909 Dr. Sidley, who was a practicing physician in Denver, became a chemist and then treasurer of the milk company.

Bull, known as a travel lecturer, lives in Toronto and founded a hospital for Canadian army officers at Putney Heath. He is in Chicago at present.

NATHAN STRAUSS, BENEFACITOR AND MERCHANT, DEAD

Widely Known Philanthropist Died At Hotel In New York City

(Picture on Page One)

New York, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Nathan Strauss, widely known philanthropist, merchant and leader of the American Jewry, died yesterday in his apartment at the Hotel San Remo of heart failure and high blood pressure. He was 82 years old.

Strauss had been in failing health since the death of his wife last May, and had been confined to bed for the last two weeks.

Outstanding accomplishments of his long and noted career included the establishment of pasteurized milk stations, where pasteurized milk was sold at below cost; his relief work during the panic year of 1893; his World War work, which included the sending of a shipload of food to Palestine in 1917; and his unnumbered donations to charities of every sort.

The crusade for pasteurized milk, started by Strauss as a result of the death of his small daughter from contaminated milk, has been called one of the great factors in cutting infant mortality. American and European health authorities have classed him as one of the great benefactors of the race.

Morgan Aided Him
When, in the winter of 1893, his donations to relief work got out of bounds and exceeded his power to carry them on, he appealed to J. P. Morgan for aid. Morgan, although not in sympathy with Strauss' views and policies, contributed $50,000. He was said to be the only man who ever aided Strauss in his charities.

Strauss started in business as a member of L. Strauss & Son, importers of glassware and crockery. The firm was run by the three brothers, Nathan, Oscar (who died on the Titanic disaster) and Isidor. In 1874 the firm opened a glass and crockery shop as a department of R. H. Macy's store, and from this start the Strauss family developed into a leading position among New York merchants.

Strauss was impulsive, temperamental and had a certain strong-headedness. He gave to those charities which interested him, and at

Agree on Muscle Shoals Proposal

Saying Goodby for 100 Years

Gilbert H. Beesmyer, who looted the Guaranty Building & Loan Association of Los Angeles of $8,000,000, saying goodbye for a long time—perhaps for a century—when this picture was being taken. He was just about to leave for San Quentin prison to begin a sentence of 10 to 100 years; with him are his son Elmer, at the left, and his wife, Mrs. Matilda Beesmyer.

one time engaged in a controversy with other charitably inclined persons who objected to his use of the headline. His impulsiveness was illustrated by the way he took part in politics.

Was Hot-Headed

In 1906 he became an enthusiastic champion of William Randolph Hearst, and tried to get Hearst elected Governor instead of Charles Evans Hughes. When members of Mayor Mitchell's cabinet offended him he threw all his influence into the fight to elect Mayor Hyman. He disliked Theodore Roosevelt and spoke against him, even though Roosevelt appointed Oscar Strauss to a high political office. When Edward Wasserman, a stock broker, wrote Strauss a letter remonstrating against his speeches against Roosevelt, Strauss remembered the letter for three years, and backed Wasserman's eye when he met him.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Temple Emanuel. Honorary pallbearers will include Chancellor Elmer Elsworth Brown, John Holmes, William Lyons, Phelps, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Adrian LaFarge, Adolph S. Ochs, Geo. Foster Peabody, Felix Warburg, Julian W. Mack, Simon F. Rothschild, Julius Rosenwald and Mayor James J. Walker. The services will be extremely simple in accordance with Strauss' wish.

Strauss was asked on his 75th birthday how much money he had given away.

"I have never figured it up," because I have had more benefit from what I have given away than from what I have. I have collected compound interest on everything I have given away."

Strauss is survived by his son, Nathan, Jr., his only daughter, Mrs. Irving Lehman, both of whom were with him when he died, and by another son, Hugh Grant Strauss, who was notified in Paris of his father's death.

Author Killed While Displaying Weapons

Chicago, Jan. 10.—(AP)—A revolver in a collection of curios, said to be of the first of its kind ever manufactured, brought death to Preston M. Nolan, 55, clubman, antique collector and authority on real estate and bank appraisals.

Nolan was exhibiting his collection of guns to guests. The old revolver attracted attention.

While Nolan attempted to unload the weapon equipped with an old-style ejector rod, there was an explosion and the bullet passed through his heart. Death was instantaneous.

Nolan was the author of books on financial topics, including "Business Firsts."

"NAVY BILL" HAS QUIT AS MENTOR OF NAVY TEAMS

He Will Accept Place With Some Other School As Yet Un-named

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 12—(AP)—William A. Ingram, football coach at the Naval Academy for the last five years, is leaving Annapolis to coach elsewhere, presumably at the University of California.

Captain Henry C. Cooke, Director of Athletics, announced that "Navy Bill" had resigned by telegram and said details must come from Ingram, now at his home at Jeffersonville, Ind.

At Jeffersonville Ingram said he had resigned that he intended to continue coaching and that the school which employed him would make the announcement in the near future.

"My reasons for arriving at this decision are known to the athletic department at the Naval Academy," he added. "and any further statement in that regard must emanate from that source. The authorities at the Naval Academy have been full cognizant of all negotiations I have had with any other institution."

Three weeks ago Ingram, in denying that he was negotiating for the post of coach at the University of California, declared that he had "no idea of not returning to Navy."

Was Grid, Rowing Star
Ingram was a gridiron and rowing for the Navy, and later football coach at William and Mary College and University of Indiana.

There have been reports that he and Navy athletic authorities disagreed over the terms of his contract. During last year's spotty season he was under a one-year contract. He asked for a three-year contract friends said, and the Navy offered him one of two years.

When he became coach in 1926, and turned out an undefeated eleven, his brother, Commander Jonas H. Ingram, was Director of Athletics. "Navy Bill" resigned from the service in 1922.

At Berkeley no confirmation of the signing of Ingram to succeed Nibs Price as the California mentor was available. William W. Monahan, graduate manager who has been in the east seeking a new Bear coach, has returned.

Ingram has been mentioned frequently as a possible successor to Price. Two weeks ago it was reported that he visited California.

SCHMELING AND STRIBLING WILL BE SIGNED SOON

Those On Inside Look For Contract To Be Signed Shortly

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Jan. 12—(AP)—If flistic observers have interpreted the signs correctly, all obstacles in the path of a heavyweight title match between Max Schmeling and Young Stribling have been cleared away and their managers are ready to sign on the dotted line.

Some of the more optimistic of the experts voiced the opinion today that the bout would be "made" within 24 hours, but the more conservative were inclined to believe that several minor odds and ends would have to be disposed of first.

Certainly there were definite indications that "Pa" Stribling, father-manager of the Macon, Ga., heavyweight, and promoters for the Hearst Milk Fund were close to an agreement. Schmeling already is under contract to the Milk Fund and no trouble is anticipated from that quarter.

According to best available advices, the bout, if all goes well, will be held next June in Detroit, Cleveland, Philadelphia or Jersey City.

The biggest hitch in the Milk Fund's negotiations with the elder Stribling has been the demand that Stribling, providing he whips Der Maxie in June, agrees to meet Jack Sharkey in September in defense of his title. "Pa" has taken the position that the game could not stand two heavyweight title fights in one outdoor season. A compromise may be effected on the basis of an agreement by Stribling to meet Sharkey for the Milk Fund at some future date, possibly in the summer of 1932.

This effort of promoters to include Sharkey in the heavyweight scheme has been viewed as an attempt to placate the New York State Athletic Commission, which has nominated the Boston sailor as the outstanding contender and relieved Schmeling of his crown because he refused to sign immediately for a return match with Sharkey.

Moss To Angels In Deal For Pitcher

Chicago, Jan. 12 (AP)—Malcolm Moss, lefthanded pitcher, has been turned over to the Los Angeles Club of the Pacific Coast League as part of the deal which brought Ed Baecht, a right hander, to the Chicago Cubs.

Moss came to the Cubs from Louisville a year ago, but finished last season with Minneapolis, having gone to the Millers with Charlie Tolson in exchange for George Kelly.

THE CALL OF THE OUTDOORS

FIELD THE BIRDS

Now is the time to prepare feeding activities for game birds and song and insectivorous birds throughout the northern portion of the United States. January, February and March are the critical months for the birds. If they do not receive help when the ground is covered with ice and snow they will starve.

In a number of states the conservation department, conservation organizations, Boy Scouts, 4-H Clubs, Izaak Walton League, Chapters, schools, nature clubs, farmers and others cooperate on intensive winter feeding campaigns. Many flocks of ring-neck pheasants, bobwhite quail, Hungarian partridges, and even wild turkeys are saved from starvation.

The small birds, the familiar winter visitors, always fully repay any effort in their behalf. The school children in many instances build feeding shelters and supply food to their feathered friends daily. Boys and girls who feed the birds will become real conservationists in later years. Encourage them all you can. Shelter feeding is very effective.

Billion A Year Is Value Given Wild Life Work

New York—Wild life conservation is worth $1,000,000,000 a year to this country," according to W. L. McAtee, of the Bureau of Biological Survey, Department of Agriculture, in a report reaching Seth Gordon, president of the American Game Protective Association.

Mr. McAtee, who is in charge of the Bureau's division of food habits research, made this estimate on the basis of the following items:

Meat and fur production, about $100,000,000; destruction of harmful insects by birds, $350,000,000; production of fish, $15,000,000; hunters' expenditures, $160,000,000; hunters' license fees, more than $9,000,000; and a share of the general tourist expenditures credited to the drawing power of wild life $252,000,000.

"At least $1,000,000 was spent by visitors to the national forests and national parks in one typical year," said Mr. McAtee, "and probably one-seventh of all such expenditures may be attributed to the drawing power of the wild life in those areas. All this contributes to the material welfare of the people in sections where the parks and forests are located."

"Hunters produce a large revenue in Maine and other states," he said. "If all the areas logically available for wild life could be kept producing game, it would easily mean an increase of what may be calculated at about $21,000,000 annually."

Wild life should be given not only living room but the best available care, he declared. He urged that the layman assist in protecting wild life by winter feeding and in supplying home sites wherever possible.

Boy Of 16 Winner Of Miami Tourney

Miami, Fla., Jan. 12—(AP)—Win Day, a slender, yellow-haired, slightly stooped lad, nearing his 16th birthday, wore the man-sized crown of the Miami mid-winter amateur golf tournament to high school today.

He said he was "too tickled" to comment on his victory in a grueling 40-hole championship battle yesterday with Lee Chase of Buffalo, N. Y., former Florida and New York state amateur titleholder. Day played nine practice holes yesterday before embarking upon what proved to be his third extra-hole match of the tournament.

He lives in Chicago six months of the year and goes to school at Miami Beach the other six.

DEMPSEY NAMES STRIBLING BEST OF THE HEAVIES

Puts Schmeling Second:
Sure He Could Lick
Sharkey Any Time

New York, Jan. 12—(AP)—W. L. (Young) Stribling of Macon, Ga., is the best of the current crop of heavyweights in the opinion of Jack Dempsey.

Making his annual selections of world title stars for "The Ring," boxing magazine, Dempsey places Stribling at the top of the heap with Max Schmeling second and Jack Sharkey third.

"To Stribling, I think, we must look to retain American supremacy in the heavyweight ranks," said Dempsey, "for it is my opinion that if Sharkey has ten more opportunities to win the crown, he will fall short of the mark. Were I to attempt a comeback, which I am certain I will not, poor as I might be, there is one heavyweight I am sure I can knock out—none other than Jack Sharkey."

Here's the way Dempsey ranked the leaders in the various flistic divisions:

Heavyweights—Young Stribling, Max Schmeling, Jack Sharkey, Primo Carnera, Tuffy Griffiths, George Godfrey.

Light heavyweights—Maxie Rosenbloom, Jimmy Slattery, Larry Johnson, Lew Scozza, Tait Littman, Pete Latzo, George Courtney.

Midweight—Mickey Walker, Len Harvey, Dave Shade, Harry Smith, Angel Gilville, Vince Dundee, Jack Hood.

Welterweights—Young Corbetta,

Tommy Freeman, Jimmy McLarnin, Jackie Fields, Young Jack Thompson.

Junior welterweights—Jack Kid Berg, King Tut, Manuel Quintana, Billy Townsend, Sammy Mandel, Joey McGill, Stanislaus Loayza, Herman Perlick, Mickey Cohen.

Lightweights—Tony Canzoneri, Jack Kid Berg, Billy Petrolle, Justo Suarez, Al Singer, Louis Kid Kaplan, Junior lightweights—Ben Bass, Roger Bernard, Al Foreman, Johnny Farr, Pete Nebo, Freddy Miller, Davey Aoad.

Featherweights—Batling Battalio, Earl Mastro, Fidel Labarba, Kid Chocolate, Eddie Sinea, Tommy Paul, Lew Massey, Bud Taylor.

Bantamweights—Al Brown, Kid Francis, Newsboy Brown, Joe Scalzaro, Pete Sanstol, Archie Bel Vidal, Gregorio Domencio Bernasconi.

Flyweights—Midget Wolgast, Frankie Genaro, Phil Tobias, Frankie Kid Anselm, Steve Rocco, Marty Gold, Black Bill.

Two Detroit Boys Held By Kidnapers

Detroit, Jan. 10—(AP)—The possibility that David Junro, 11, and his brother, Dunbar, 8, who disappeared Sunday, are being held for ransom, or some other purpose was seen in an announcement from the sheriff's office that an anonymous telephone message had been received stating the boys had been kidnapped.

About the time the call was received yesterday, the father, C. E. Munro, posted a reward of $500 for the return of his sons.

The boys disappeared while on their way home in Wyandotte from Sunday school.

You can't afford to be without the Dixon Evening Telegraph's Accident Insurance Policy. The cost is very small, $1.25 pays for a year's protection. In case of death your family receives $1,000.

Girl Flyers Set Endurance Mark

A few moments after this picture had been taken, Edna May Cooper and Bobbie Trout took to the air over Los Angeles in their plane, "Lady Ralph," and set an endurance flight record for women that may stand for years to come. ### Nye Will Move To Oust Senator Davis

Washington, Jan. 10—(AP)—Pennsylvania's Senate seat, now held by James J. Davis and long vacant while the conflict over William S. Vare raged, again is threatened.

Because expenditures of the Republican ticket upon which Davis was elected reached a sum placed by Chairman Nye of the campaign funds investigating committee at about $1,200,000, the North Dakota Senator has announced he will introduce a resolution to unseat the former Labor Secretary.

His action, said Nye yesterday, will come probably in a little more than a week, as soon as the committee has completed its Pennsylvania investigation and report and after other pressing business is disposed of.

If you had lived several million years ago in what is now Indiana, probably you would have met monsters like the one shown above, for near Cromwell, Ind., scientists are now digging up the bones of a recently discovered mastodon. Dr. Ira Edwards, of the Milwaukee public museum, is shown with a leg bone almost as big as a man's body. Donovan Harper, 10-year-old farm boy, is holding an eight-pound molar tooth which he found while playing in an old bog on Charles Feldheiser's farm and which led to the discovery of the huge skeleton. ## Daily Health Talk

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

No doubt, long before there were physicians or midwives, women gave birth successfully to children without the help of either. On the other hand they, no doubt, frequently suffered unnecessarily and sometimes became ill or died as a result of complications which today are perfectly controlled.

As human life became more complicated and conditions of living changed, medical complications of child-birth became more difficult and the opportunity for infection far more frequent.

There are, as has been frequently pointed out, three main factors to be considered. First, to bring the mother successfully through the entire period from conception to recovery; second, to insure the birth of a healthy infant; third, to have the mother as nearly normal after the experience as she was before.

Because of the fact that midwives undertake a part of the practice of medicine, this phase of medical training has had hardly a fair share of attention in medical schools. It is an aphorism that a badly taught midwife can kill more women than a highly educated physician can cure.

Before there were trained surgeons, barbers did much of the surgery. It was "barber" surgery and not "surgical" surgery.

One of the great difficulties in securing better results in the matter of child-birth is the fact that the public itself is not well informed concerning the possibilities.

If the vast majority of women made sure of their ability to bear children successfully and without complications at the time of marriage, if they consulted competent medical advice immediately on the knowledge of conception, and if they followed such competent advice carefully through the entire circumstance, the number of deaths would be greatly cut down and there would be a vast amount of illness prevented.

Much has been written of late in newspapers and in magazines concerning the great cost of scientific obstetrical care. It is recognized that the work of obstetric specialists is not necessary in the vast majority of cases. Specialistic service is expensive regardless of whether it is in the field of law, plumbing, farming or medicine.

In the uncomplicated case, the general practitioner can secure excellent results. There is always the possibility that he will be unable to give as many hours of time to the individual case as can be given by the specialist. Furthermore, he may be called at significant moments and be required to pass from an unaffected person to the care of a woman in child-birth.

The midwife cannot be by the very nature of things as competent as the well trained physician. Indeed the most important training that she can secure is sufficient knowledge and judgment to enable her to know when to call for medical assistance.

A midwife can usually recognize excessive bleeding, convulsions, swelling of the legs or similar complications, but not many can recognize unfavorable physical conditions and wrong presentations sufficiently early to enable the securing for the patient of the best type of control.

The determination as to whether or not a midwife, general practitioner, or specialist will be called is wholly in the hands of the patient, since there is in but few parts of the country any adequate control of the training or qualifications of midwives and since specialistic obstetrical care in the best hospitals is of necessity an exceedingly expensive commodity.

FOOD COSTS FIXED AT $9.25
Omaha, Neb. —(UP)—The average Omaha family of five, including father, mother, boy 13, girl 7, and child of 3, can eat on $9.25 a week but they won't, according to an estimate drawn by the Omaha Welfare Association. The food obtainable at this price is not the cheapest but it is the minimum necessary to properly nourish the five.

Hunger Victims in Arkansas

This picture shows one of the many families that are suffering from lack of food in the family neighborhood around England, Ark., where one-third of the nearby population marched on the town recently to demand food. It is the family of W. A. Russell, farmer. The drought last summer ruined Russell's cotton crop, and he has been unable to work, having earned only $25 since last summer. The three children are constantly hungry and a new baby is expected. His plight is typical.

Pacific Slope Is Starting To Work

San Francisco, Jan. 10.—(UP)—Building construction and contracting in the states of the Pacific slope are starting a banner year.

The most optimistic note in western business conditions since the depression started was sounded in facts and figures revealed by a survey of the construction industry just completed by the United Press.

The amount of new construction in the 22 leading cities of the west gained 51.2 per cent for December, 1930, as compared to the previous December.

December, 1930, also registered the impressive gain of 42.7 per cent against the month immediately preceding.

California leads the parade of the western states, with $100,000,000 worth of engineering projects either under way or under contract. Oregon, Washington, Arizona and other states west of the Rockies follow in order and with proportionate showings.

THINKS WORLD IS "GOING TO DOGS"

And He Doesn't Mince Words in Comment On Ministers

By WOLF LARSON

United Press Staff Correspondent

Chicago, Jan. 12—(UP)—The man who fought 33 battles for the Union in the Civil War and waged 500 campaigns for the Lord in 63 years of evangelism, believes "the world is going to the dogs."

In those 63 years Dr. L. W. Munhall of Philadelphia has induced 200,000 persons to "nit the sawdust trail," probably more than any other evangelist.

The fire that brought the converts to Dr. Munhall's altar remains undimmed by the 88 years that rest on his shoulders. He still preaches the "old time religion" but fears the world is blindly headed toward doom.

An admirer of Aimee Semple McPherson and Billy Sunday because they preach hellfire and brimstone, Dr. Munhall has little patience with modern ministers. The evangelist, gray-haired and looking to be about 70, minces no words in describing ministers who don't believe in the Bible from cover to cover.

"The preachers who don't stick to the Bible are nothing but perjurers," he said. "When they were ordained they took an oath to preach the scriptures and if they don't believe in the Bible as it was written they should quit the ministry."

Church On Decline

"Do you think evangelism is on the decline?" he was asked.

"It is," he replied. "Church pews are empty all over the country. The church heads have decided to let these young ministers preach their fool notions and the people have decided there is no use being saved."

"I am an old-time Methodist. I know my Bible from cover to cover. These modernist ministers can't fool me. The holy word says there is a hell and a hell there is. I preach it—fire, brimstone and eternal torment for the wicked. If there is no hell then what is there to be saved from. I ask you?"

Dr. Munhall told proudly his conquests as soldier and campaigner for the Lord. But his words were wrathful when he thought of the trend his church had taken.

The Methodist church went into the great business and started competition with secular schools. Good was forgotten and infidels were hired to teach our children and we are reaping a whirlwind of educated disbelievers who scoff at the Bible's teachings.

"My Bible tells me of the doom the world is blindly headed for, and I am prepared for the end and when the roll is called up yonder I'll be there."

BEGIN HERE TODAY

"RONNIE DUNDEE is in New York investigating the murders of JUANITA SELIM and DEXTER SPRAGUE and learns from SERENA HART, successful stage star, that Nita married in 1918, was soon deserted, but not divorced. In 1925, a picture of Nita appeared with a story about the suicide of ANITA LEE, which was endorsed in Hamilton.

Nita comes to Hamilton, after showing strange excitement over pictures of Hamilton people, and deposits $10,000 in cash. Dundee wonders if this were "black money" from a husband who had married after he thought she was dead. Four of Dundee's possible suspects married in 1925, the time of Nita's death—JUDGE MARSHALL, owner of the death venison; JOHN DRAKE TRACY; MILES and PETER DUNLAP.

An attempt is made on Dundee's life as means of an ingenious mechanical contrivance in order to prevent Dundee's telling anyone what he found out in New York, and Hamilton immediately guesses that the other two murders were mechanical too. At the same time, the murderer of the woman, which was a big bronze lamp, with a spherical base, which was the same as the wire leading to a bell in Nita's room, which rings in the bedroom in the basement. In the basement, Dundee finds traces of the connection, although the murderer has had opportunity to remove the more obvious traces of his work.

After he is fully confident he knows how Nita was killed, he drops in on PENNY CRAIN, who is playing anagrams with her mother. He tells her of the guests at Nita Selim's unfortunate bridge party, and suddenly he knows who killed Nita.

CHAPTER XLVII

"I FAIL to see any necessity for all this secrecy and hocus pocus," District Attorney Sander protested irritably. "Why the devil don't you come clean and give us the low-down—if you have it!"

on this miserable business, instead of high-handedly summoning Captain Strawn to my office, so that you can give orders to us both?"

Before Dundee could answer, Captain Strawn came to his assistance.

"I worked with this boy for pretty near a year, Bill, and never yet did he fail to make good when he said he had a pot on to hell. If he says it will boil over this evening, provided we help him, boil over it will, or I don't know Bonnie Dundee!"

Sanderson scowled, but capitulated. "All right! What do you want?"

"Thanks, Chief! And thanks, Captain! Dundee cried, with heartfelt gratitude. "First, I want to be excused from attending the adjourned inquests into the two murders, scheduled for three o'clock today."

"O. K." Sanderson agreed shortly. "Second, after about an hour of routine stuff, I wish you'd ask for another adjournment until tomorrow, on the plea that important developments are expected today."

"O. K. again!"

"Third, I'd like you personally to request the appearance of every person connected in any way with each of the murders, in your office this afternoon at four o'clock—so the whole bunch will be kept together and have no chance to go to their homes or anywhere else until I am ready for them."

"Do you want all the servants brought here, too?" Sanderson asked.

"None but Lydia Carr," Dundee answered. "After about an hour's innocuous questioning, please invite them to accompany you to the Selim house. For that—and he grinned—"Is where the pot is scheduled to boil over. I'd like everybody to be there by 5:15."

"Where do I come in?" Captain Strawn demanded, almost jealously.

"Now that you are no longer looking for a New York gunman, I suppose you have plenty of plain clothesmen at your disposal?" Dundee asked, and was instantly sorry.

"Plenty," Strawn answered gruffly. "How many will you need?"

"Enough to keep every person on Mr. Sanderson's invitation list under strictest observation until—the pot boils over," Dundee replied.

"When do you want them to get on the job?"

"As soon as they can do so, after you get back to your office."

"Are they to follow the whole gang clear out to the Selim house?"

"Most decidedly! After the unwilling guests are safely within the house, your boys must guard the premises so that no one leaves without permission."

"That's all as good as done," Strawn assured him. "Now about the inquiries you asked me to make yesterday of the secretary of the American Legion." He drew a scrap of paper from his breast pocket. "I find that John Drake Peter Dunlap and Clive Hammond were all in service, in the—th Di vision, which was held up late in January, 1918, for nearly two weeks in Hoboken, before the War Department could get transports to send me to France. Miles, who enlisted the day war was declared, was wounded and shipped home in 1917. He was discharged as unfit for further service—spinal operation—from a New Jersey base hospital on Jan. 12, 1918. Furthermore, Judge Marshall was in New York the whole winter of 1917-18, attached to the Red Cross in some legal capacity. He donated his services—and."

"All that doesn't matter now, Captain, but thanks just the same," Dundee interrupted. "Now if you will both excuse me, I've got a lot of work to do before five o'clock today!"

Dundee had not exaggerated. That Monday was one of the busiest days he had ever spent in all the 27 years of his life. He began rather strangely, by visiting half a dozen of Hamilton's hardware stores, exhibiting a peculiar instrument and making annoying inquiries as to when and to whom it had been sold. But at his sixth port of call success so completely rewarded his efforts that he was jubilant.

Two other calls—both in office buildings—took up only an hour of his time, and a taxicab delivered him at police headquarters at noon.

He was lucky enough to find the fingerprint expert, Carraway, in his cubbyhole of an office.

Five minutes later Dundee sat at that desk, photographs of Dexter Sprague's dead body, just as it had been discovered on the floor of the trophy room in the Miles home, and a labeled set of fingerprints spread out before him.

"You're sure there can have been no mistake?" he asked. "No chance that these fingerprint photographs were reversed when the prints were made?"

"Not a chance—with my system!" Carraway retorted positively. "Fine!" Dundee cried. "May I take these photographs? . . . You have copies, I presume?"

"Where do I come in?" Captain Strawn demanded, almost jealously.

Gets Belated Award for Hero Brother

Gallantry in action which cost him his life at Marcy Farm, France, more than twelve years ago, has won a posthumous award of the Distinguished Service Cross for John P. Kayes, of the 165th Infantry. Here you see the medal being presented to the hero's brother, Michael J. Kayes, by Brig. Gen. Lucius A. Holbrook, commander of the First Division in a ceremony at Governor's Island, New York.
